

Revenue Bill To Have Heavy Income Surtax

House Committee Approves 75 Per Cent for All Over $5,000,000

Effort Is Made to Reach Excess Profit

Kitchin Says System Used in England Is Now Being Considered

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Surtaxes on all incomes above $200,000 were increased, with a maximum of 75 per cent on all above $5,000,000, by the House Ways and Means Committee today in its consideration of the $8,000,000,000 revenue bill.

Incomes between $200,000 and $300,000 will pay 45 per cent surtax, instead of the 32 per cent heretofore planned; incomes of $300,000 to $500,000, 60 per cent, instead of 58; $500,000 to $1,000,000, 65 per cent, instead of 63; $1,000,000 to $5,000,000, 70 per cent, instead of 68; and all above $5,000,000, 75 per cent, instead of 70 per cent, as at present.

Speaking for the Treasury Department, R. C. Leffingwell, Assistant Secretary in charge of internal revenue, advised the committee in favor of the English system of both excess profits and alternative war profits taxes, the Treasury to apply whichever plan promises the greater revenue in excess.

He proposed leaving the excess profits plan as tentatively agreed upon, and adding the provision for the alternative plan in case war profits are not sufficient to cover the excess.

Kitchin Explains Action

Chairman Kitchin, after the adjournment of the session, said: "Considering the income taxes, we increased surtaxes on incomes from $200,000 upward, to 75 per cent for $1,000,000 to $5,000,000 incomes, and 75 per cent on all above $5,000,000. We discussed with Assistant Secretary Leffingwell pre-war profits and excess profits, with an alternative plan, the Treasury to apply whichever raised the more revenue.

"When we put the present excess profits plan in the tentative bill it was understood that when Secretary McAdoo returned we would discuss it, and the putting in of an alternative plan, with him.

"The sentiment of a large majority of the committee seems to be to have both the excess profits and alternative plans incorporated in the bill and that it be left to the Treasury to apply whichever to equal a straight war profits tax.

"Eighty per cent has been suggested on pre-war profits. We can raise $2,500,000,000 under either the excess profits or alternative plan. The subcommittee on luxuries made its report, but it was not complete and we are going to let the subcommittee all the time necessary.

"The luxuries report submitted today lists two groups of articles, one also-gather luxuries and the other in part luxuries. As to the first group, the subcommittee recommended a 10 per cent tax on retail sales.

Key Men Join New Union

Harry M. Swartz, first president of the Association of Western Union Employees, said yesterday, on his arrival from the West, that the new organization has 95 per cent of the employees of the Western Union Company within its ranks.

"We are first and at all times American citizens and resent any pro-German propaganda to influence us in this hour of our country's need," he declared. "We have everything employees could wish for—sick benefits, pensions, vacations with pay, eight-hour day, time and money, and a substantial increase after August 1. What more could an outside organization accomplish?"

Plan to Revive Fire Gongs

Oldtime Bells May Call Volunteers in Queens to Duty

The war soon may bring the old method of the volunteer fire department back in Queens back into service. A conference will be held tomorrow in the office of Fire Commissioner Brennan as to the method of making use of the auxiliary volunteer fire-fighting force in that borough, and a part of the plan that is deemed most important to this volunteer force, many of whom are members of the old volunteer department, is the utilization of the old fire-bells.

Former chiefs of the volunteer department are to command the civilian force in Flushing, College Point, Whitestone and Woodhaven, where the system will first be tried out. The men who have been filling the places of firemen gone to war have been on duty at night for the most part in other sections of the city and the same procedure probably will be followed in Queens. It has been suggested that men from the highway and sewer bureaus of the borough be assigned to help out in the daytime.

Upton Bootleggers Get Jail Sentences

Army Officials Take Drastic Measures to Keep Liquor From Camp Zone

Bootleggers who venture within five miles of Camp Upton will be arrested and vigorously prosecuted, Major H. H. Walker, provost marshal of the cantonment, declared yesterday when he appeared in the United States Court in Brooklyn against forty-two men who had been arrested in camp on Sunday charged with attempting to smuggle liquor.

Within an hour and a half after the prisoners reached Brooklyn indictments had been returned against them by the grand jury. Most of them were charged with attempting to serve terms ranging from one to sixty days. Major Walker declared that he had been assured that sentences for once would become increasingly severe.

"We are making every effort," he said, "to stop the bringing of liquor into Camp Upton. I have ordered every package, grin and automobile within the five miles of the camp searched. Major General Bell is insistent that this bringing in of liquor be stopped.

"I am using the most drastic means possible. It was the old method to confiscate the liquor and put the man or woman back on the train. But now we shall use the new method and impose a sentence of from one to sixty days and a fine of $1,000."

Man Kills Self in Theatre

19-Year-Old Pole, "Tired of Living," Takes Poison

An audience in the Jefferson Theatre, a vaudeville and motion picture house at 216 East Fourth Street, saw a man take his own life last night and went home thinking that he had succumbed to the heat. The man was Michael Distra, a nineteen-year-old Pole, of 466 Second Avenue. He had a seat in an upper box. In the midst of the performance he fell from his chair.

An ambulance surgeon from Bellevue Hospital pronounced him dead and a few minutes later a patrolman found a bottle, which the physician said had contained cyanide of potassium, in the box. Further search disclosed a scrap of paper on which the writer had scrawled that he was tired of living. "I don't want my body cut up," he concluded.

Gas Price Raise in Brooklyn Halted By Order of Court

Company May Not Exceed 95-Cent Rate Until New Hearing Is Granted

Hughes' Ruling Fought

Public Service Commission Asks $1.25 Schedule Is Not Authorized

Supreme Court Justice Russell Benedict in Brooklyn yesterday granted a temporary injunction to the Public Service Commission restraining the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company from charging $1.25 or any rate in excess of the present rate of 95 cents. The injunction also requires the company to show cause before the justice next Wednesday why it should not be permitted to charge more than 95 cents for gas until such time as the company shall have made application to the commission for the fixing of a new rate and has convinced the commission of the need of a higher rate during the war period.

Yesterday's move was the most drastic yet taken by the Public Service Commission against the attempt of the company to carry out its threat of $1.25 gas. Justice Benedict's decision declaring the present rates of the company unconstitutional and therefore unenforceable. The city and state have joined with the commission to fight the issue in the courts.

The legal fight is an important one, as it will test the public service law under which regulatory power is given to the commission over public utility corporations.

"The time has passed," said Commissioner J. H. Kracke, "when the public will permit a gas company to decide for itself what it will charge its consumers without power of a public tribunal to protect the public interest."

The relief was asked for by the commission on behalf of the consumers on two grounds.

First—that the company has not filed with the Public Service Commission, as required by law, any tariff or schedule of rates. Second—that the company has violated the public service law by charging a rate without filing a tariff and prohibiting the commission from charging a rate without filing a schedule duly filed and published.

Says Old Rate Stands

Second—that the company having voluntarily accepted the commission's tariff, it is not permitted to charge a rate without filing a tariff and prohibiting the commission from charging a rate without filing a schedule duly filed and published.

The relief was asked for by the commission on behalf of the consumers on two grounds.

Hylan Promises to Help Brooklyn in Gas Rate Contests

The city administration pledged its aid last night at a meeting of boards of trade and civic associations in Park City, Brooklyn, to the fight against the $1.25 gas rate proposed by the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company. Mayor Hylan sent a telegram from Saratoga and John P. O'Brien, Assistant Mayor, also sent a telegram from the city.

I want to assure the consumers of gas of the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company," said Mayor Hylan in his telegram, "that the Mayor and the city administration will stand by the consumers in their fight for their rights. Eighty-cent gas is not a luxury, but a necessity, and the price was reduced the quality or illuminating power of the gas was likewise reduced."

"There should be some standard required by law to measure the quality of gas, and when the standard is set, the price should be set to meet the standard. It is the duty of the gas companies to furnish the public the quality of gas they pay for and are entitled to."

About two hundred persons attended the meeting, representing ten of a dozen organizations of the Coney Island, Flatbush and Sheepshead Bay districts. It was decided to organize as a unit to combat the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company. A. W. Dennen, president, among the speakers were Magistrate Alexander H. Geismar, Joseph P. Kelly, Deputy Commissioner of Public Works, Brooklyn, and R. Lucas, president of the 2d Assembly District Republican Club and of the Flatbush Taxpayers' Association, and John Temple Graves.
